. Norfolk Society . .

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLK, VA., October 7.—Society this week has been occupied with informal welcomes. So many of the members of the visiting and the entertaining set have been away from home for weeks or for months that it has required all of the time of those who stayed at home or those who came home early to welcome those who have just arrived. There are still so many absentees that the primary circles which compose the great circle called society are not organized for the guyeties of the season, which are soon to begin. Their membership will have to be complete before the campaign for the fall and the winter dinners and dances begins. Just now it is difficult to have a small party for a luncheon, while the possibility of a dance is out of the question. The couples could not be gathered. They would constitute a lot of missits, which would make the manager weep for the trouble she had caused and the pleasure which had not resulted. There will be no events of social importance, till the summer travelers come home, and they are a little delayed this season, because of the yellow fever 1,000 miles away, and because the weather has not turned cold in the mountains and in the North. The social chronicler has nothing to do this week but to note arrivals and departures. There have been no events. There have been no events. There have been hut a few marriages, and they were in the presence of a few relatives and friends, and they were of the class known as "quiet weedlings." The news of the week is as follows:
